

Soil Boring Map, Existing State Boiler Plant c. 1940s

The following map of what is believed to be soil borings from the design for when the plant was constructed. The map was located by Vermont Department of Buildings and General Services and is provided without warranty as document located during records review. It is believed to provide a cross section of the soils in 1946-1947 time frame.

